As we are now entering a new economic environment, the improvement of liquidity and cash flow is top of mind for companies. U.S. importers paid 78% more in duties in 2019 than the previous year, yet a vast amount of duty payments are recoverable but not pursued. One lever multinationals are using to manage liquidity and cash flow is re-examining the recovery of duties, especially those assessed on imported China origin goods at a rate of 25% or more.

During this webcast, leaders from KPMG LLP's Trade & Customs practice and ICPA member Kristen Lane, Acuity Brands Lighting, Inc., will discuss enhancing the use of numerous tariff recovery and planning strategies. This session will cover:

- Developing various strategies that can be incorporated into their businesses and trade functions;
- How to accelerate recovery of up to five years of customs duties paid, within 90 days;
- Leveraging your competition's approved tariff exclusions to recover over year and a half of certain tariffs paid;
- Deferring, mitigating, and potentially eliminating the payment of duties in the short and long-term;
- Immediate actions companies may consider to help avoid the risk of losing the recoveries.

KPMG and ICPA professionals will lead discussions on lessons learned from recent duty recovery efforts and program implementations and the steps organizations can take to potentially increase their cost savings to achieve efficiency and effectiveness.

Continuing professional education

Guests attending this webcast will be eligible for approximately 1.5 CPE credits. KPMG is registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy as a sponsor of continuing education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors. State boards of accountancy have final authority on the acceptance of individual course credits. No advance preparation or prerequisite is required for this program.

Target audience

This webcast will be of interest to trade compliance professionals, finance and tax professionals, and legal departments.
