This Year in Trade – Fall Update

Thursday, October 8, 2015
12:00 - 1:00 PM Eastern
Webinar

As we discussed in our first This Year in Trade webinar earlier this year, as globalization pushes forward, the potential rewards – from trade, from expansion, from partnerships – have multiplied along with the risks. As a result, companies doing business around the world are facing a variety of important issues affecting their bottom line, including sanctions, export controls, customs, and many others. On Thursday, October 8, 2015 at 12:00 pm Eastern, our Crowell & Morning team will follow up on our February 2015 predictions of the key trade issues to watch globally for 2015 and into 2016.

Our primary areas of discussion will include:

- Economic Sanctions
- Anti-money Laundering and Foreign Corrupt Practices Act
- Export Controls
- Free Trade Agreements
- Customs
- Antidumping
- Cross-border Issues in Government Contracting
- EU Trade Issues

Presenters include members of our international trade and white collar teams based in Washington, D.C., New York, and Brussels as well as a representative from our affiliated trade policy team from C&M International. We hope you can join us for this webinar.
