Your First Stop for Supply Chain Information

Tell Us How You Value Global Sourcing and Trade Management Success

As globalization continues to evolve, companies need to become more agile and automated in global sourcing and logistics processes.

Supply Chain Digest and Amber Road are conducting a survey on global sourcing and trade management practices and technology. We invite you to weigh in by responding to these and other related questions in our brief survey:

- What capabilities do companies believe are most critical to global sourcing and trade management success?
- What processes and capabilities separate leaders from average and laggard companies?
- How good are companies in areas such as total landed cost calculation and estimating lead times?

All survey respondents will also receive a complimentary copy of the final report. Individual responses are kept confidential and only reported in aggregate.
